

Ray Lett, Ph.D, P.Geo.

Retired from the British Columbia Ministry of Energy, Mines and Petroleum Resources (MEMPR) Geological Survey, Victoria, BC, Canada after 20 years as senior geochemist. Presently School of Earth & Ocean Science (SEOS), University of Victoria, Visiting Scientist and BC Geological Survey emeritus scientist. Before joining MEMPR exploration worked as geologist/geochemist for Amax Exploration, Fox Geological and BP Minerals, Vancouver (1970 to 1979) then chief geochemist for Barringer Research, Toronto (1980 to 1989). Actively involved in applied geochemistry research and a SEOS sessional lecturer teaching introduction to geochemistry and economic geology. Association of Applied Geochemist Fellow since 1972 and Councillor since 2015-2018. Geological Association of Canada Pacific Section, Victoria, Secretary since 1998.